- E-mail address
- Telephone numbers
- Names
- Postal addresses

Sensitive information. We do not process sensitive information.

Any personal information you provide must be true, complete, and accurate, and you must notify us of any changes to such personal information.

2. HOW DO WE PROCESS YOUR INFORMATION?

We process your personal information for a variety of reasons, depending on your interaction with our Services, including:

- To preserve or protect a person's vital interest . We may process your information where it is necessary to preserve or protect an individual's vital interest, for example to prevent harm.

Online-Marketing

We process personal data for online marketing purposes, which includes, in particular, marketing advertising space or displaying advertising and other content (collectively referred to as "Content") based on potential user interests, as well as measuring their effectiveness.

For these purposes, user profiles are created and stored in a file (called a "cookie") or similar procedures are used, in which information relevant to the display of the above content is stored for the user. This information may include, for example, content viewed, websites visited, online networks used, communication partners and technical details such as browser used, computer system used, and details of usage times and functions. If users have consented to the collection of their location data, this may also be processed.

We also store users' IP addresses. However, we use available IP masking methods (i.e., pseudonymization by shortening the IP address) to protect users. In general, no clear user data (such as email addresses or names) is stored as part of online marketing procedures, only pseudonyms. From there

We and the providers of online marketing procedures do not know the actual identity of the users, but only the information stored in their profiles.

The information in the profiles is usually stored in cookies or similar methods. These cookies can later be read in general on other websites that use the same online marketing procedures and analyzed for the display of content, as well as to supplement additional data and store it on the server of the provider of the online marketing process.

Exceptionally, clear data can be assigned to the profiles. This is the case, for example, if users are members of a social network whose online marketing procedures we use, and the network links users' profiles to the above information. Note that users can enter into additional agreements with the providers, for example through consent upon registration.

We generally only have access to aggregated information about the success of our ads. However, we can check which of our online marketing processes have led to a so-called conversion, for example to the conclusion of a contract with us, through so-called conversion measurements. The conversion measurement is used exclusively to analyze the success of our marketing measures.

Unless otherwise stated, please assume that the cookies used will be stored for a period of two years.

- Types of data processed: Usage data (e.g. websites visited, interest in content, access times). Meta, communication and process data (e.g. IP addresses, time details, identification numbers, consent status).
- Data subjects: Users (e.g. website visitors, users of online services).
- Purposes of processing: Reach measurement (e.g. access statistics, recognition of returning visitors); Tracking (e.g., interest/behavioral profiling, use of cookies); Marketing; Profiles with user-related information (creation of user profiles). Conversion measurement (measuring the effectiveness of marketing measures).
- Security measures: IP masking (pseudonymization of the IP address).
- Legal basis: Consent (Art. 6 para. 1 sentence 1 lit. a GDPR). Legitimate interests (Art. 6 para. 1 sentence 1 lit. f GDPR).
- Opt-out: We refer to the data protection notices of the respective providers and the options for objection specified there (so-called "opt-out"). If there is no explicit opt-out option, there is the option to disable cookies in your browser settings. However, this may limit the functions of our online offer. We therefore also recommend the following opt-out options, which are offered collectively for the respective areas: a) Europe: <https://www.youronlinechoices.eu>. b) Canada: <https://www.youradchoices.ca/choices>. c) USA: <https://www.aboutads.info/choices>. d) Cross-border: <https://optout.aboutads.info>.

Further information on processing processes, procedures and services:

- Google Ads and Conversion Measurement: Online marketing practices for the purpose of serving content and ads on the Service Provider's advertising network (e.g., in search results, in videos, on websites, etc.) so that they are displayed to users who are likely to be interested in the ads. In addition, we measure the conversion of the ads, i.e. whether users have taken the opportunity to interact with the ads and take advantage of the advertised offers (so-called conversion). However, we only receive anonymous information and no personal information about individual users; Service provider: Google Ireland Limited, Gordon House, Barrow Street, Dublin 4, Ireland; Legal bases: Consent (Art. 6 para. 1 sentence 1 lit. a GDPR), legitimate interests (Art. 6 para. 1 sentence 1 lit. f GDPR); Website: <https://marketingplatform.google.com>; Privacy Policy: <https://policies.google.com/privacy>; Basis for transfer to third countries: EU-US Data Protection Framework (DPF); More information: Types of processing and data processed: <https://privacy.google.com/businesses/adsservices>. Conditions for data processing between controllers and standard contractual clauses for cross-border data transfers: <https://business.safety.google/adscontrollerterms>.

We maintain an online presence in social networks and process user data in this context in order to communicate with the active users there or to offer information about us. We would like to point out that user data may be processed outside the European Union. This can pose risks for users as it could potentially make it more difficult for them to enforce their rights. In addition, user data on social networks is usually processed for market research and advertising purposes. For example, the behavior and interests of users can be used to create user profiles. These usage profiles can then be used to place ads inside and outside the networks that are presumed to match users' interests. Typically, cookies are stored on users' computers, where users' behavior and interests are stored. In addition, data may be stored in the usage profiles regardless of the devices used by the users (especially if the users are members of the respective platforms and are logged in). For a detailed description of the respective forms of processing and the possibilities of objection (opt-out), please refer to the privacy statements and information provided by the operators of the respective networks. In the case of requests for information and the assertion of user rights, we would also like to point out that these can be asserted most effectively with the providers. Only the providers have access to the data of the users and can immediately take appropriate measures and provide information. If you need more help, you can contact us.

- Types of data processed: contact details (e.g. email, telephone numbers); Content data (e.g. entries in online forms); Usage data (e.g. websites visited, interest in content, access times). Meta, communication and process data (e.g. IP addresses, time details, identification numbers, consent status).
- Data subjects: Users (e.g. website visitors, users of online services).
- Purposes of processing: contact requests and communication; Feedback (e.g., collecting feedback via online form). Marketing.

- Legal basis: Legitimate interests (Art. 6 para. 1 sentence 1 lit. f GDPR).
